

Indiana Access To Recovery– Quick Facts

What is ATR?

Indiana Access to Recovery (ATR) is a client-choice program designed to provide vouchers for supportive services to help persons move into and/or stay in recovery from substance abuse and addiction. ATR is being offered as a joint project between the Indiana Department of Mental Health and Addictions (DMHA) and the Office of Faith-Based and Community Initiatives (OFBCI).

Who is Eligible for the Program?

ATR Service funds will be available for adults at 200% or below the poverty level, living in Allen, Elkhart, Lake, Marion, St. Joseph, Vanderburgh, and Vigo counties. Adults coming out of the criminal justice system, pregnant women and women with dependent children and adults who are fighting Methamphetamine addiction are the three target populations.

How does ATR Work?

Each client enrolled in ATR will work with a Care Coordinator who will help them assess their recovery needs and to develop their Individualized Recovery Plan. The Care Coordinator will provide vouchers to the client to access ATR funded services and will also help the client to connect with any non-ATR services they may require. ATR providers will be both secular and non-secular, giving the client the option of selecting the provider they are most comfortable with. When a client accesses services at an ATR provider organization, that entity will then be reimbursed by the state. With the exception of those that provide Care Coordination, ATR Service Providers who meet certification criteria may provide any or all of the Clinical and Recovery Services.

How do I sign up to be a provider?

DMHA and OFBCI are currently recruiting organizations to provide Care Coordination and all other ATR recovery and clinical services. ATR will be starting one county at a time during 2008. Local Coordinating Councils (LCCs), United Ways and other entities will be asked to promote informational meetings in each area. If you are interested in learning more, please contact ATR Provider Services Manager, Charlotte Shoulders at (317)234-4292 or cshoulders@ofbci.IN.gov
